

Amy Bringhurst

From: Harriet Hopf
Sent: Wednesday, February 07, 2018 11:58 AM
To: Amy Wildermuth; Amy Bringhurst
Subject: FW: Three New Appointments in Academic Affairs

From: "A. Lorris Betz" <pulse@noreply.utah.edu>
Reply-To: Internal Communications <InternalCommunications@hsc.utah.edu>
Date: Thursday, January 4, 2018 at 12:54
To: University of Utah Health <emaillistserv@utah.edu>
Subject: Three New Appointments in Academic Affairs

Dear Colleagues,

I am pleased to share an announcement of three appointments within our Academic Affairs unit.

Wendy Hobson-Rohrer, MD, MSPH, will serve as the Assistant Vice President for Education and Faculty Development for University of Utah Health while also continuing in her role as Associate Dean for Faculty Development for the School of Medicine. Dr. Hobson-Rohrer provides oversight and administration of the Academy of Health Science Educators and faculty development activities for University of Utah Health.

Robert Fujinami, PhD, will serve as the Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs for University of Utah Health in addition to continuing to serve as the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs for the School of Medicine. We look forward to Dr. Fujinami providing oversight and administration of the academic personnel process and faculty governance for University of Utah Health.

Rena D'Souza, DDS, MS, PhD, assumed the role of Assistant Vice President for Academic Affairs and Education for University of Utah Health in the summer of 2017. In this position, Dr. D'Souza is providing leadership for the creation of a Research Capstone Hub and serving as a faculty research development liaison.

These leaders will report directly to Dr. Wyatt R. Hume, Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs and Education. Please join me in congratulating these outstanding leaders and thanking them for their ongoing commitment to the University of Utah Health system.

Sincerely,

A. Lorris Betz, MD, PhD
Interim
CEO, University of Utah Health

Executive Dean, School of Medicine
Senior Vice President for Health Sciences